

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Post at will, personal info redacted. Good thought Mainer.

Begin forwarded message:

From: [REDACTED]
Date: June 17, 2009 9:59:13 AM CDT
To: enforcement@sec.gov
Subject: Concern over manipulation, TIVO

I have concern that price manipulation is occurring with TIVO stock. There is pending patent litigation that is nearing an end, and the outcome has enormous consequences to the value of TIVO. There is much anticipation as to how this ends up.

This morning, 6/17/2009, a little after 10 EST, TIVO dropped severely on no news reported. It almost would give the impression that a negative outcome from the patent litigation had been released. But the stock rebounded immediately.

Is this a manipulation using stop-loss orders? Or some other manipulation that attempted to invoke more selling, implying that the patent litigation was going badly for TIVO?

[REDACTED]